HUNDREDS AT FINAL RITES FOR MRS. J. BOEYER

Hundreds of friends and neighbors gathered at the Hirsch Funeral Home in Tinley Park Sunday afternoon to pay their last tributes of honor to a highly esteemed fellow citizen, Mrs. Louise Boeyer, who died rather suddenly from a heart ailment last Thursday morning. The overflow from the funeral home was accommodated in a large tent adjoining the funeral home. The tent was equipped with a public address system so the funeral services were plainly heard. Rev. Albert Buddenhagen, pastor of the Zion Lutheran church in Tinley Park, officiated.

The floral offerings were very profuse and exceedingly beautiful. A number of exquisite floral tributes came from the International Harvester Company and one personal floral piece came from Mr. McCormick.

The deceased's husband, John Boeyer was in the employ of the International Harvester Company for a long time and was just recently pensioned. Mr. Boeyer received a very fine letter of condolence from officials of the company. This shows that great firms do remember their faithful employees even they are no longer in the active service of the company.

Louise Boeyer nee Becker was born in Cologne, Germany, Nov. 14, 1880. On August 23, 1904 she was married to John Boeyer.

They resided in various European cities during the time Mr. Boeyer was the European Manager for the International Harvester and were in Europe when the war broke out in 1914. In 1917 they located in Tinley Park and have resided here since then.

Surviving are the husband, two sons, Harold of California Herman of New York, two daughters, Mrs. May Hohman of Waverly, Iowa and Mrs. Ericka Mancke of Tinley Park, five grand children, one sister Bertha Sunder living in Germany and a host of friends.

She attained the age of 59 years, 9 months and 8 days.

Interment was made in the Zion Lutheran cemetery.

ORGANIZED FOTO CLUB

Mrs. Boeyer was always keenly interested in orphans and orphan homes. On January 4, 1934 Mrs. Boeyer invited a group of eight women to her home having in mind the idea of helping the Lutheran orphan homes.

One of these homes in Iowa takes care of about 100 children. Her guests caught the spirit of her plans and hence the Foto club was organized. The name "Foto" stands for Friends of The Orphans.

In the ensuing years hundreds of articles have been made and sold; the proceeds were used to buy lovely, useful articles of clothing for these needy little ones.

Her fellow workers will surely miss her.

In notifying the Homes of her passing the Foto Club says:

"We are sad to relate that this memorial gift is for the originator of the Foto Club.

"She was so interested in doing things for others, especially your family of orphans.

"It was she, who planned all our work, and could never wait until we had a little cash on hand, so we could send a package to the 'Homes'.

"She never wanted credit for her work.

"It is the ambition of our group to keep on working together, that we may continue doing our bit for the Lord's needy ones."

And thus ends a beautiful life and her good deeds follow on.

CARD OF THANKS

We deeply appreciate and sincerely thank our relatives, neighbors and friends for their many kind expressions of sympathy and kindness in our deep bereavement in the passing of our beloved wife and mother.

We thank Rev. Albert Buddenhagen for his comforting words, all who sent the beautiful floral offerings and those who so kindly donated the use of their cars.

JOHN BOEYER AND FAMILY

Orland to Celebrate Completion of Newly Paved St.

Orland Park has just completed the paving of Union Ave., with the proceeds derived from the state motor fuel tax and the Village Board of Orland Park and the Orland Park Woman's Club will sponsor a joint dedication program to be known as the "Boost Orland Park Progress" program.

The musical part of the program is under the sponsorship of Mrs. H. Adele Cooper, music chairman of the Orland Park Woman's Club and is also the village clerk.

Another feature of the program will be band music by the 46 piece Illinois Concert Band under the direction of Max Bendix. The program starts at 7:45 p. m., Tuesday, Sept. 10th. All the surrounding communities are invited to attend this event.

We Have Reached Twenty-one Years

Twenty-one years ago, August 28, 1919 the News-Bulletin made its first appearance as an eight page 5 column paper. A suit case full of advs. set in the present shop in Mokena by hand was carried by the editor and Clinton Kraus of Mokena to the Rock Island depot in Mokena and placed on the suburban train at that time arriving here at 2:17 p. m. Arriving at Blue Island the heavy suit case was carried down Western Ave., to the Melvin Press where the newspaper was made up and printed. The linotype for the reading matter was set and shipped to Blue Island from Chicago by the Western Newspaper Union. Later on a press room was built to the plant at Mokena and the printing press was moved from Blue Island to Mokena.

Today the shop of the News-Bulletin is a busy place. Three weeklies, one bi-monthly, and two monthly papers are printed here.

The shop is equipped with a cylinder press, two jobbers, casting box, stitcher, large paper cutter, electric saw, addressing machine and loads of metal and wood type. A big run of job work is also handled. Color work is handled as easy as the regular black and white run. This week the shop is turning out a three color poster job.

Upon entering its twenty-second year of service to the communities it serves, the editor of this paper expresses his thanks and appreciation to the public for the fine support accorded this paper during the years and the News-Bulletin will continue to endeavor to serve the best interests of the public in the field in which it operates.

Yes sir, we are of age, having passed our 21st birthday and with this issue we enter our 22nd year. (continued on page 7)

Orland Defeats Texaco 4 to 3

The Orland Park baseball team is one of the most thrilling and exciting games to be witnessed in Orland in many a year, defeated Texaco by the close score of 4-3.

Texaco scored 2 unearned runs in the 1st inning to take a 2 to 0 lead. They held this lead until the 8th inning when Orland pushed 2 runs across to tie the count. Texaco not to be outdone scored 1 to take a 3-2 lead going into the last of the 9th Orland then scored 2 runs to win 4-3. In the 9th King singled to center, E. Uthe singled to right, sending King to 3rd, Heiting and missing two bunts hit the next one into right field for 2 bases scoring King and sending E. Uthe to 3rd.

Bormet topped to the pitcher and E. Uthe was out at the plate. Then H. Uthe sent a slow ball to the pitcher and Heiting slid under the catcher's glove to score the winning marker for Orland.

The game started with the oldest and youngest pitchers in the league twirling. It was brains against speed. Orland was literally helpless until the 8th when old Fred began to weaken. This win still leaves Orland in first place, in a tie with Oak Lawn.

Next Sunday Palos Park will travel to Orland Park and the latter will seek revenge for the defeat and the way the boys are going it looks like another victory, so don't forget Palos Sunday at Orland.

Pitches No-Run No-Hit Game

Heinie Siebrandt, Matteson hurler, pitched a no-run, no-hit game against Mokena Sunday, Aug. 25. The score was 2-0. Bob Bormet of the M.Y.O. team yielded only four hits. The score, Matt's'n, 29, 2, 4, 2. Mokena 28, 0, 0, 2.

F-Men To Patrol Green Garden

The F-men of Green Garden held a meeting at the town Hall August 22, 1940. This meeting was well represented.

They decided to have the roads of Green Garden patrolled by the deputies and constables of this organization and thus cut down crime.

It was also decided to have the meetings and card parties begin on Oct. 11 and monthly thereafter.

Plan To Give Play This Fall

At the last meeting of the Sunshine 4-H club held at the home of Laura and Hilda Wille it was decided that the club give a play again this fall. The play has been selected and characters have been chosen. Rehearsals will start soon.

Frankfort Mayor Gives Reason For Adopting Truck Ordinance

News-Bulletin, Mokena, Ill.

Dear Editor:-

In reading your last week's issue, I find a statement that the Village Board of Frankfort adopted an ordinance establishing a special license of $15 per year for every truck owner doing business in the corporate limits of Frankfort.

This is not the kind of ordinance that has been adopted and is to be effective Sept. 1st, 1940, but I am enclosing with this letter copy of the ordinance which was passed on unanimously by the full board at its last regular meeting held Monday, August 5th.

Now as far as to opposition to this ordinance there has been some. But I want to say that at no time have I or the entire board ever worked for anything which was a detriment to the business men or any of the people of the village of Frankfort. We have been confronted with problems which, no doubt, are causing other towns the same grief, only each village or city chooses different ways of raising money.

Friday, August 23rd I called a special meeting inviting all business men to meet with the village board and to them I explained the ordinance and need for it, for there are the many new things that have come along that need to be taken care of such as insurance on our new village hall, on the fire truck, and insurance on the firemen and other temporarily employed persons working for the village along with payments on the fire truck and interest. It also may be good to mention some of the monthly bills which have to be met such as the following:

Street lights $100; village hall $6, Janitor, pumping and reading meters, $15 per month, telephone, $1.75, gas, $.75, heating of village hall?

Yet each year the county gives the village practically a $100 less to carry on with. We are now to receive in 1940 if all taxes are paid, $1597. But you can figure about 85 percent. In 1939 we received $1427. We also received $600 from the two taverns figuring about $2000 for a general fund out of which these bills are to be met. We feel that the improvements that were made were very essential and that

Mokena Civic Home Coming Group Invites Exhibits

Adolph Steen who is in charge of the exhibits feature of the Mokena Civic Association Home Coming to be held Sept. 13, 14 and 15 advises that the exhibits will be similar to the ones shown last year, particularly corn.

Any exhibits of whatever nature are invited. If you have antiques any thing odd or out of the ordinary, it will be appreciated if you will exhibit. Any one wishing to enter any kind of exhibit should get in touch with Mr. Adolph Steen in Mokena.

Watch for a lineup on exhibits in our next issue.

Watch for the big souvenir edition of this paper for Sept. 13th containing many interesting features.

The big 3 days of Mokena's Home Coming celebration will be bigger and better than ever before. Remember the dates and be sure to come and bring your friends.

HAZELCREST vs. MOKENA TONIGHT AT ROBINSON'S FIELD

Tonight the Mokena "Robins" will play host to the fast Hazelcrest softball team at Robinson Field. The Robins expect to continue their winning ways although Hazelcrest is reputed to be very fast. All the fans are invited to attend.

In the league games Mokena is tied with Frankfort for the lead and they also have a rain-out game which will have to be played with New Lenox. This game may be played tonight.

To Open Mokena Beer Gardens

Two beer gardens are staging opening nights in Mokena. Morry Larson will open his newly remodeled beer garden Friday night, August 31st. Plenty of eats and a good time for all. His beer garden is located between his tavern and the Mokena State Bank building.

On Saturday night, Sept. 7th Frank Hirsch will open "Hirsch's Budweiser Gardens" adjoining his tavern on Front street. Register for special prizes.

To Hold Labor Day Picnic

The Frankfort Volunteer Fire Department will hold a picnic at the Frankfort Grove Labor Day afternoon and evening, Sept. 2nd. Games, stunts, music, refreshments and dancing. Everyone invited.

we were living within our means.

All money received from water users is used and kept in a water fund separate from general fund according to law.

Same is done with money in the building fund. All money received from motor fuel tax from the State is kept and used for streets only. If we were to have vehicle license this would not help the situation for rightfully this is money to be used on the streets only and we feel that we have very good streets and receive enough motor fuel tax money to take care of the same.

After explaining all this thoroughly the businessmen were called upon (those who were present) to state their views, after which the board again discussed the matter and declared that no change was to be made.

Hoping you will publish this and that the matter has been fully explained.

GEORGE SANGMEISTER,

President of Village Board, Village of Frankfort.

Section 1 of the ordinance referred to by Mayor Sangmeister provides that it shall be unlawful to use or permit the use of any vehicle, including wagons and motor vehicles and vehicles propelled by human power, for the storage or the carrying of any meats, poultry, fish, butter, cheese, lard, vegetables, bread or bakery products or any other provisions intended for human consumption, including beverages and milk in the Village for the purpose of delivering any such foodstuffs to any place in the Village for use and consumption or for resale in the Village for such purpose unless a license for such vehicle is first secured and provisions of this ordinance are fully complied with.

Section 2 of the ordinance provides that no license fee shall be required for any vehicle used to deliver foodstuffs from any establishment which is licensed and inspected as a food dealing establishment in the Village but all provisions of the ordinance shall be complied with in connection with such vehicles other than that provided for the payment of fees.

The new ordinance goes into effect, September 1st, 1940.

Mokena Band Will Play In Riverview Sept. 5

The Mokena Grade School Band, is scheduled to participate in the Second annual Invitational "Tournament of Music" at Riverview Park Chicago, Thursday, Sept. 5. Bandmaster Howard Strohm announced today. The contest is the feature of the Park's spectacular "Mardi Gras" Carnival being held this season from Aug. 17 to September 8.

Special busses will transport members of the organization to the Park on the evening of their appearance and return them at the end of the festivities. While in the Park they will be the guests of the management and will receive free admission to many of Riverview's popular fun attractions. Friends and relatives of the players are also invited to attend. They will be admitted to the Park free of admission.

From two to three musical organizations will parade with the carnival floats each night of the celebration. A special jury of judges, headed by Herman J. Beringer, well-known band master and instructor will judge the groups on their musical ability and military discipline. Special awards and medals will be presented to the winners in the following groups:

A. Adult Municipal and Industrial Bands, B. High school Bands, C. Grade School bands, D. Adult Drum and Bugle Corps, E. Junior Drum and Bugle Corps.

Riverview Park is the largest amusement park in the world. Located on the great northwest side of Chicago it covers an area of more than 144 acres. Brilliantly lighted, gaily bedecked midways circle the Park and contain hundreds of rides, shows and attractions. During the Mardi Gras Carnival an added feature will be the nightly parade of floats, bands and giant rubber inflated figures. The parade will be three quarters of a mile in length and will feature, in addition to the bandsmen, hundreds of clowns and other comic characters.

I. D. Marti is in charge of arrangements. Anyone wishing to go to Riverview can procure free gate admission tickets from Mr. Marti.

Carnival at Marley Sept. 7

The Marley Sunday Evening Club will sponsor a carnival Saturday evening, Sept. 7th on the church grounds. There will be refreshments and concessions of all kinds. A radio will also be awarded.

WILL HOLD FLOWER SHOW

The Garden Club of Midlothian will hold its annual Fall Flower Show on September 7 and 8 in the auditorium of the Midlothian Public School, 146 and Springfield Ave.

Entries will include flower arrangements and specimens, vegetable specimens, home-canned fruits, vegetables and jellies, shadow boxes, miniature, twin, breakfast and luncheon table arrangements, a hobby show, and as a new feature toy luncheon tables arranged by children.

The Central States Dahlia Society will again award a medal for the best dahlia exhibited. The award was won last year by Mr. Chas. Strombeck of Chicago. There is always keen competition for this coveted honor. A door prize also will be awarded. The public is cordially invited to enter exhibits. According to Mrs. W. D. Button, chairman of the flower show, entries must be in before 10:30 Saturday morning, Sept. 7. The show is open to the public from 3:00 Saturday afternoon until 10:00 in the evening, and Sunday from 10:00 a.m. until 10:00 p.m.

The school can be reached by auto the Safeway Bus lines, or the Rock Island Railroad. There is ample parking space on the grounds.

Frankfort Opposes Valuation Increase

The proposal of the Will County Board to raise the assessed valuation of real estate thruout the county, is meeting with a storm of protest in some of the rural sections.

Mayor George Sangmeister of Frankfort is to preside at a mass meeting of citizens in the Frankfort village hall Friday night of this week for the purpose of discussing the situation and to register opposing protests to the county body. Attorney A. H. Krusemark and Clarence M. Cleveland are to make addresses on this subject. The meeting is called for 8 p. m.

Mayor Sangmeister points out if the valuations are increased as proposed taxes in the Frankfort area would be increased 33 1-3rd percent.

All interested are invited to attend this meeting.

Former Orland Residents In Bad Wreck

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Doak former Orland Park residents and who have been operating a tourist court on East Cass Street in Joliet, figured in a serious automobile accident last week.

They left a week ago Tuesday in their new 1940 Packard to visit with their nieces in North and South Dakotas. Their grandson, John Doak, 6 years old was with them. When they were within ten miles of Madison, S. D., where one of their nieces resides, the automobile skidded while rounding a curve on route 34, causing the car to plunge down an eight foot embankment and hitting a fence post.

Mr. Doak received a double fracture of the right leg and several ribs were broken. Mrs. Doak, the former Hattie Austin of Orland Park, suffered greatly from shock and her right leg was broken just above the ankle. The grandson received cuts and scratches. All three were taken to the Community Hospital at Madison, South Dakota, where both Mr. and Mrs. Doak are getting along as well as can be expected. Both have their broken legs in casts.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Hill of Joliet the latter a niece of Mrs. Doak, are conducting the motor court during the absence of Mr. and Mrs. Doak.

ORLAND STATE BANK

We Take Pictures For Your Protection

On a tiny strip of movie film, The Orland State Bank takes a picture of every check which it pays for customers.

You know, of course, that a cancelled check sent to you by this bank is the best of all proof that you have paid a bill. But sometimes you may misplace a check—or it may be stolen.

If a check is lost—and you need it to prove the payment of a bill, you don't have to worry when you are a customer here. Simply notify us and we will give you a picture of it.

—a picture is taken from our movie film record which is permanently kept on file.

Only a few banks, outside of the very largest ones, have established this new protective service for customers. But Orland State Bank has used it for some time.

From time to time during this period depositors have come to the Orland Bank to prove by use of the films that payment had been made by check. We believe the best banking equipment is none too good for our customers—and we make every effort to provide it.

Orland Firemen Picnic Sept. 1

The old man jinx has been following the footsteps of the Orland Park Volunteer Fire Department for the past weeks, resulting in their picnic being rained out for two successive Sundays. Nothing daunted, Fire Chief John Helenhouse says he hopes to lick the jinx and states that his fire laddies are ready to try to hold the picnic this coming Sunday, thus making the third attempt. It is hoped that the weather man will be kind enough to hold up the rain for a few days.

The proposed picnic will be held in the Gee Grove along Orland Lake. There will be a variety of games and attractions. The New Lenox band has been engaged to furnish part of the musical program. There will be dancing on an open air dance floor. A good time assured for all. Remember the date, Sunday September 1st.

Benefit Dance For Fire Victims

The benefit dance for the Anton Nelson family of Mokena who figured in a tragic fire in June in which three members of the family died, will be held in the Frankfort grove on Sunday night, Sept. 8. Guy Colby of WLS fame will put on the regular barn dance dances and music and everyone is invited for a good time. Don't miss it. Bring your neighbors and friends.

Dick Hern Has Fine Record

Dick Hern, grandson of Richard Hensel of Mokena is making his mark in the baseball world in St. Petersburg, Fla. He has won 21 games, and struck out 283 men. His pitching record was .233. On August 30th he plays in the city series.

Native Hawaiians Leading Sensation

The New Bachelor Grove Ballroom 4 miles north of Tinley Park is putting on a real entertaining feature by way of native Hawaiians who will be seen and heard in novelty specialties every night except Monday beginning Sept. 1st. They are top notch in their line and are some thing new and different in this section.

By the way Sunday, Sept. 1st a big birthday party will be held at the Bachelor Grove Ball Room. Lots of eats and a big time for all. Bar B. Q. Spare ribs and other delicacies. Come early and stay late.

Labor Peace and Banishment of Strikes Is Record of Toledo Industrial Board

By LANSING CALLAWAY

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)
EDWARD A. McGRADY, assistant secretary of labor was on his way to Toledo, Ohio. The time was 1935 and there was a strike in progress there.

To Mr. McGrady it seemed that there was always a strike in progress in Toledo; and that he was spending the greater part of his career commuting back and forth between that city and Washington. To a great many people in Toledo the same things were beginning to be apparent.

The industrial wrangling had begun in 1934, labor and industry had become almost literal armed camps and the name of the city was on the front pages from Boston to San Diego. Two men had been left dead in the city's streets, hundreds had been injured in fighting and hatreds were being aroused that forecast trouble for years to come.

But this time, after the immediate business at hand had been settled, Mr. McGrady wired his Washington office that he wouldn't be home right away. He was staying over in Toledo in the hope of getting to the base of the recurrent trouble and obviate the necessity of his constant excursions to Toledo.

What Mr. McGrady had in mind was that it seemed to be nobody's business or concern if the city's industrial life flowed smoothly or was threatened with disruption. During the days when a potential industrial break was forming, and might most easily be adjusted, no one did anything about it. The situation was allowed to drift. Even when some of the large and bitter strikes were in progress, there was no agency at work to get the city's life back to normal.

Record Is Impressive.

Mr. McGrady sought to change all this. How well he succeeded is shown in the figures released for this Labor day. In the last five years the city of Toledo has assisted in averting 165 potential strikes, in which 32,224 employees were involved. Included in this were 52 cases in which a strike definitely had been voted.

In addition the city government assisted in settling, peacefully and quickly 47 strikes in which the comparatively small number of 5,617 employees figured. Some of these strikes were called without the knowledge of the city administration, others in spite of efforts to avert them.

Also the city assisted in settling one lockout in which 100 men were involved, and it looked in on 42 other disputes representing 2,874 employees, but for various reasons was not able to contribute toward a settlement. Virtually all of the latter, however, eventually were settled by the parties directly involved, without "outside" intervention.

The grand total:
265 disputes handled; 41,478 employees involved.

Riots: None.
Savings in wages and potential losses to owners, stockholders: Millions

After One Year of War in Europe

The European war enters its second year on the first of September. During its first year it saw the complete disappearance of seven countries. Seven countries were overrun during the first year of the war, and two others lost land to invaders.

Following is a calendar of the principal events which occurred during the past year:

September 1—Germany invades Poland. Danzig "returns to the Reich."

September 3—Chamberlain and Daladier announce their nations are at war with Germany.

September 17—Russia invades Poland.

November 30—Russia invades Finland.

March 13—Finnish-Russian peace treaty is signed in Moscow.

April 9—Germany occupies Denmark and invades Norway.

April 15—Allied troops land in Norway.

May 2—Allies withdraw from Norway.

May 10—Germany invades Belgium, the Netherlands, and Luxembourg. Winston Churchill becomes prime minister.

May 14—Netherlands capitulates, and Queen Wilhelmina flees to London as her country falls.

May 28—King Leopold of Belgium surrenders.

June 2—British war ministry announces that four-fifths of the B. E. F. has been evacuated from Flanders.

June 5—The German Somme offensive begins at dawn.

June 10—Mussolini announces Italy's entry into the war against the allies.

June 14—Germans occupy Paris.

June 17—Henry Philippe Petain, succeeding Reynaud as premier of France, asks Germany for an armistice.

June 22—In the same "Armistice car" at Compiègne where Germany sued for peace in 1918, French delegates accept German terms.

June 24—French delegates accept Italy's armistice terms.

July 3—British seize, destroy, or bottle up a major part of the French navy.

July 19—Hitler, addressing Reichstag, warns Britain to yield or be destroyed.

August 2—British arrest two prominent Japanese in London.

August 15—Germany launches mass aerial blitzkrieg on England. Greek cruiser sunk by unknown submarine.

St. Augustine, Fla., Celebrates Founding

ST. AUGUSTINE, FLA.—The oldest city in the United States will have its second childhood when it celebrates its 375th birthday on September 7, 8 and 9. Catholic clergymen from throughout the country will gather to commemorate this city's founding and the birth of Catholicism in America. It was here that the first mass in the U. S. was sung.

Cost to the city, $6,450.

"If Toledo can do that, why can't any other city?" is a question sometimes asked and also, "Has Toledo discovered any secret technique in averting industrial disputes?"

Model for Others.

The answers, respectively, are that any other community can do likewise, and that Toledo has not discovered any method of "passing miracles" but rather has applied old-fashioned, garden-variety horse-sense to differences between men and management.

Briefly Mr. McGrady set up on that final visit to Toledo, back in 1935, what is known as the Toledo industrial peace board. It includes five men from the ranks of management, five from labor, and one full-time director. These 10 since have added eight others to their ranks, attorneys, judges and clergymen to represent the public.

The board is an integral part of the city government, but it has no authority to "crack down" on anyone. It issues no "publicity releases." It cannot vote on who is right or who is wrong. It does not even express such opinions publicly.

Mr. McGrady set up the first board himself. He went to the Chamber of Commerce and he thumped the table. There was a great deal of reluctance. There was a lot of honest skepticism. But he got a promise of co-operation.

Then he went before the Toledo Central Labor union. Strangely enough he met the same reaction.

"You need not fear such a board," said Mr. McGrady. "It will not interfere in any way with your right to strike. Co-operation by labor and management with such a board will be entirely voluntary. What have you to lose by trying?"

The answer was that no one had anything to lose by trying. The two critical disputes involving thousands and thousands of men (Chevrolet-Toledo division, General Motors, Scenes of strike violence like that shown above are things of the past in Toledo, O., since the Toledo Industrial Peace Board began to function five years ago in using "horse-sense" to adjust difficulties between labor and employers. Thousands of dollars have been saved to workers, employers and the city as a result. Edward A. McGrady, left, former assistant secretary of labor, who helped Toledo business men and labor representatives form the board in 1935.

March, 1935; and Toledo Edison company, June, 1935) had left the city exhausted, emotionally and industrially.

Solid Support.

Toledo's three newspapers gave solid support to the plan. Cautiously, each side watching the other from the sides of their eyes, the first meeting was held. McGrady presided and did most of the speaking. He promised to assign to the board as its full-time director Lee S. Harding, a federal mediator.

The functions of the board were outlined and it was decided to go ahead, although every one of the men at that first meeting since has confessed that he agreed with a great deal of suspicion.

But during the following six months the board assisted in settling seven disputes without loss of a single day of work. Five strikes that already were showing signs of being long drawn out struggles were settled.

There was no street fighting. No one was hurt. The vast Toledo industrial area was working full blast. Payrolls and production were on schedule. Workers had money to spend. Merchants were pleased.

The people of Toledo also began to sit up and realize that something new had arrived on the scene. Much to the surprise even of the board members, they too were finding their suspicions of each other allayed; confidence and reason were taking the place of animosity.

If a labor situation became menacing, the director of the Toledo Industrial Peace board offered his services to both sides. He sought a fair compromise and offered it for consideration. But he never ordered any side to do anything.

If the situation reached such a spot where the director felt he was not making progress, the entire board was called into session. The board offered its services, at times it even offered suggestions. While it never voted on whether a question was right or wrong, the important element was that within the city, at least, there was an agency charged with the task of keeping industry running and dissipating disputes before they reached the troublesome stage.

Public Prestige.

In March, 1936, Harding was recalled to Washington, but the Toledo city council decided the board was desirable, and decided to continue it as a regular part of municipal government, with a paid director.

On the recommendation of McGrady, board members engaged a newspaper man, Edmund Ruffin, as director. Ruffin had covered all of the previous strikes.

After being director for more than four years, Ruffin says he has no cut and dried procedure in approaching or working out disputes.

"I know many industrialists and labor officials, and I try to keep informed as to what is going on in the way of organization programs, negotiating of new and succeeding agreements," Ruffin explained. "If I hear of a deadlock, I may offer my services to both parties, or one or the other may call me."

"After I get into a dispute, I listen to an outline of viewpoint by each group, usually in a joint meeting. After that, I throw in general suggestions as may come to mind, or may offer some specific procedure to which all may agree."

Various offices in Toledo have received hundreds of inquiries as to how the Toledo board was established, how it operates and what it has accomplished.

These offices include the Toledo Chamber of Commerce, which has given quiet support to the board; the headquarters of the various labor organizations, which, from the start, have indicated their endorsement by co-operating; and also a group known as Toledo Associates, an organization of men whose chief purpose is to publicize Toledo's true industrial picture.

Fear of both constituents and Roosevelt influence Senators on conscription . . . Fletcher's Hatch Act boner only mistake so far in Willkie campaign.

(Bell Syndicate—WNU Service.)

WASHINGTON.—What is the real motive of the senators who are fighting so hard against conscription? That is a question frequently asked in Washington, and there is very little satisfaction to be derived from studying their speeches. They may make good arguments but, except in a few instances, they do not convince those carefully thinking over their remarks that they are giving the real lowdown as to why they do not want compulsory military training.

In some instances the men most violently against conscription take that attitude because they are afraid of their constituents.

In more spectacular instances, providing their motives could be exposed, they are afraid of what President Roosevelt might do.

FEAR REACTION AT HOME

Certain senators with very heavy German constituencies fall into group No. 1—those who are afraid of their voters back home. Close behind them, if not in fact in front of them, are certain senators whose states have a very high percentage of Irish voters. For more than 50 years, for example, it has been regarded as smart politics in Massachusetts to "twist the Lion's tail," by which was meant doing something to annoy Great Britain in order to curry favor with the heavy Irish population in eastern Massachusetts.

Of course in some states, particularly in the Middle West, there is a heavy pacifist sentiment, which inclines to make their senators and representatives afraid to take a warlike stand.

Curiously enough it was this section of the country which has been the little-army and little-navy section. Its senators and representatives seldom voted to appropriate for a new battleship, or more planes, or any other military expenditure. It was so in the days when people seemed to worry about taxes, even those who paid very little.

MISTRUST ROOSEVELT

Much more important than fear of constituents, however, is a real fear on the part of many senators, of whom only a few are frank about it, of what President Roosevelt may do. They think that he is itching to get into the war. They think that if given half a chance he will plunge this country into the European situation. Most of those holding this view, of course, are opposed to this country having anything to do with the war. One of the reasons so many of them are opposed to the adjournment of congress is that they want to "ride herd on" the President, to keep him if possible from taking any action which would result in involving this country.

But this particular fight was just about lost, irreconcilably, in that very close vote on the amendment offered by Sen. Alva B. Adams of Colorado which would have prevented the President's sending the National Guard outside of U. S. territory and possessions in that year of training. The vote was mighty close—39 to 38, but that was the real test.

FLETCHER PULLED BONER

So far the only boner pulled in the Wendell Willkie campaign was perpetrated by Henry P. Fletcher, when he suggested that the Hatch act could be evaded by having big contributors give to both national and local campaign funds.

The most extraordinary thing about it all is that it was done by Fletcher, and in the face of a statement by Willkie that he wanted to cut down, not increase expenditures in the campaign to be made for him and McNary.

It is extraordinary to have come from Fletcher because of Fletcher's really outstanding record as a diplomat. It would seem to indicate the wisdom of the old saw about putting a round peg in a square hole. As a diplomat, in South America, in the Far East and in Europe, Fletcher's record is one that any diplomatic official might well envy.

BRILLIANT DIPLOMAT

In Latin America, Fletcher, who speaks Portuguese, the language of the Brazilians, as well as Spanish and French, so endeared himself to the Latins that, when any difficulty arose at the Pan American conference at Havana in 1923, Charles E. Hughes, head of the U. S. delegation, would send Fletcher to patch it up. He never failed.

The New Dealers have leaped on Fletcher's campaign fund suggestion like hungry cats at fish. It was the first "break" since the nomination of Willkie. Attorney General Robert H. Jackson seriously urges congress to amend the law so as to prevent such wickedness.

CHAPTER XIV—Continued

As Lynn came down the staircase she looked absurdly young, Wild thought as he watched.

They went off down a winding path to the pool. There must have been twenty people gathered about, most of them with highballs. Wild took Lynn directly to his mother. She seemed so much younger than Lynn had imagined that the girl was startled.

"What in the world kept you two in town so long on a day like this?" demanded Mrs. Austin with a lovely smile for Lynn.

"I didn't get through work until 5:30, Mrs. Austin. I hope I didn't disturb things."

"Good girl!" thought Wild as he grinned down at his mother. First round to Lynn. Mrs. Austin looked speculatively at the girl.

"Why, she's lovely!" Mrs. Austin's heart contracted. She had had a hunch all along. Wild had been so different this Summer.

Mrs. Austin was a clever, charming woman and she adored her boy. She had seen one son make a disastrous marriage. She was determined that Wild would not be taken in the same way.

"This is my brother, Chuck, this is Lynn," Wild was saying. Other introductions followed.

"Come, we'll take a plunge," Wild led her to the pool.

Lynn slid over the edge of the pool. It was wonderful to be swimming again. Wild took a running dive and was beside her.

"I'll teach you to dive one of these days," he promised.

The others were calling to each other across the water, laughing easily. Lynn felt a little out of things, and then chided herself for her thoughts.

"After all, I am an outsider," Mrs. Austin gave the signal shortly to everybody that it was time to dress for dinner.

Dinner seemed interminable. Lynn sat down the table from Wild, between his brother and a young man from Asheville. Coffee was served on the terrace. Then Mrs. Austin suggested bridge. Of course, Lynn did not play.

"Then that means one table's out, unless Wild will play," a pretty brunette moaned.

"Chuck won't, you know how he is," Mrs. Austin apologized for her elder son.

"Please sit in, Wild!" begged a pretty brunette, whose name was Marie.

Wild came over to Lynn with a shrug. "I guess I'm sunk. Never mind. They won't keep me late. Will you mind talking to Chuck?"

Lynn did, very much, and it was clear to her Chuck was just as annoyed. But there was nothing to do but smile gracefully and accept the situation.

The five tables settled themselves and there was a lot of talk about stakes which Lynn did not understand. She went out on to the terrace. The night was gorgeous. Chuck followed her, glaring at his mother.

"Well, here we are!" he announced.

"Yes, here we are!" Lynn laughed. He was so frankly annoyed.

"I don't mind just being here alone. Run along. Really, I mean it."

"Mother would be furious. I can't."

"All right. Then let's promise each other we don't have to be polite. We'll just sit and brood!"

CHAPTER XV

Chuck laughed in spite of himself. "You're a funny kid, a lot younger than I thought you'd be."

"I'm nineteen."

"A terrific age!"

"It is. I feel a hundred years old."

"I suppose it's not much fun being on your own."

"It is, though. Things are going so well for me. I'm a lucky girl."

Chuck looked down at the white blur of her profile.

"I didn't suppose working girls like to work." He was quite sincere.

"There's where you're wrong. I've not had an easy time since I got out of high school. But it is wonderful when you feel secure, able to take care of yourself."

Chuck was a little abashed. He had not expected such candor.

They'd come to a stone bench and Chuck sat down and lighted a cigarette.

"What do you, 19, know about troubles?"

"I know what it means to be hungry, not to know where my next meal is coming from or where I'm going to sleep! That's trouble enough!"

"Are you serious? A pretty girl like you?"

"Certainly, I am! The trouble with people with money is that they hunt around to find something to be unhappy about. I see it in the shop. Most of those wealthy women! I'd hate to change places with them."

"What do you know about life? I'm 35. My wife has left me for another man. I haven't seen my son in almost a year, don't even know where he is. She's using him for a settlement. Those are the bald facts. Everybody knows them, you'll hear from the girls before you leave!"

"You sound as though you minded the gossip more than the loss of your family."

Chuck struck the bench with his hand. Lynn suddenly felt sorry for him, for it was plain he was suffering.

"That's a lie! I loved them! I suppose I still do. But, God—when your wife runs off with your best friend! I did everything for her, everything. She never had anything until I married her—"

How different Chuck was from Wild! "I wonder what she'd say?" Lynn spoke her thoughts before she realized what she said.

"What do you mean?"

"That maybe a gorgeous home and money were not enough."

"What more could a woman want?"

"Companionship, sympathy, understanding. I'd die, I think, without them."

Nobody had ever before talked to the eldest son of the Austin millions like that.

"She had a string of pearls which had belonged to a Queen."

"I imagine one might be very lonely here, if one didn't belong."

"She didn't belong. I admit that!" Chuck turned impatiently.

"She showed me how much she didn't belong!"

"Did she take the pearls when she left?"

"No; she had the decency to leave them."

"You shouldn't complain then."

Chuck had a sudden desire to slap this impertinent young person's face. He turned, realized she was smiling.

"You're nice, only you're afraid everybody's after you for your money! You're nice yourself, you know, and very handsome."

Chuck had the grace to laugh a little. "I'm just a bitter old man crying for the moon," he said, a little shamefacedly.

"You're not alone in that. We all do it. Only we cry for different things."

"What are you crying for? Hollywood, maybe?"

"Not Hollywood." She considered for a little, trying to be honest. "I wonder if I know?" I'm just restless, that's all."

"Be careful and don't stub your pretty toes," Chuck warned.

Talking seemed to help Chuck. This girl was not of their world, she wouldn't be looking at him across from dinner tables, with pity in her eyes!

"I hate pity. That's what I get now! You see she was pretty. She worked for me. My secretary. They tried to stop me, but I wouldn't listen. At first we were happy and I adored the boy. Then things went to pot. She didn't care about my friends, they didn't care about her. I suppose she was lonely—"

Chuck talked for a long time. Then he stopped as suddenly as he started. "What a bore this must have been for you."

"No. I like you. You're really nice and kind, underneath."

"And you're certainly a candid young person! Chuck stood up. "We better be getting back or the tables will start."

The place seemed full of young people, and Wild was talking to a beautiful blonde whose name was Heloise. Then suddenly Lynn saw Terry McNair.

"Lynn!" He came rushing over to her. Lynn was in a panic at what he might say.

"That snake Wild never told me you were here!" He took her hand.

"She's been in the garden romancing Chuck," Marie North said with a laugh. Mrs. Austin was standing nearby. She prayed Terry might be discrete.

"You look lovely in that white shawl, Lynn," Terry rattled on. Reminds me of Florida."

Mrs. Austin made a mental note to speak to Terry when the opportunity arose, and it came then, for Mr. Austin was presented to Lynn.

Wild joined Lynn and his father.

The girl was telling Mr. Austin about the little Vermont town where she was born. And then Austin began a long story about his afternoon's golf, of which Lynn understood hardly a word.

Wild realized suddenly how hard it was for Lynn to talk to these people. They had so little in common. He must be sure she had a nice time Sunday and Monday.

Wild apologized: "I felt miserable about deserting you tonight."

"You needn't. I enjoyed myself."

"You must be tired. I'll see you break away early. There'll be dancing tomorrow night, and it will be late then."

When she finally went to her room, Marie North came along with her for a little chat. Lynn had the feeling that the girl was frankly curious about her and had promised to make a report to the rest.

"That's a grand frock," Marie remarked as Lynn hung it in the clothes closet.

"It's one of Mme. Reanoud's. I model for her, you know."

"It must be fun working, having freedom from your damned family," Marie remarked.

When Marie had found out where Lynn lived in New York, and whether she liked posing for Bouchier, she left.

CHAPTER XVI

Sunday was a perfect day. Wild and Lynn, both up early, had breakfast with some of the golfers, and then the two of them went off for a sail. Wild took along a basket, and Lynn wore her bathing suit.

Lying on the deck, covered with sun-tan oil, Lynn relaxed, watched Wild sail the smart little catboat expertly. They were so perfectly happy there together, scooting along in the wind. Lynn did not stop to ask why.

Toward noon they made for a reef which offered some shade, and went for a swim. Later, lying in the shade, they had their lunch.

"This is perfect. You're a nice companion, Lynn." He turned over and smiled up at her. "You know something I've always wondered. How did you get back up North?"

Lynn's heart was pounding. She felt there was danger ahead. Finally she answered: "Rene."

"Rene?"

"I've meant to tell you the whole story, Lynn. Lynn made a resolve to tell the truth, then and there.

"You remember the car you chased that night? I was in the back seat, hidden."

"You wretch! If I'd only found you then! Think of the trouble it would have saved me." Lynn's eyes widened in surprise. "Don't you know I moved heaven and earth to find you?" He was suddenly serious.

"I had no idea."

"Well, I did. I never forgot you. I tried but I couldn't." He raised himself on his elbow. Suddenly he took one of her hands, brushed the sand from its palm and kissed it.

"I must tell him!" Lynn tried to draw her hand away.

"I'm pretty much off the deep end about you, Lynn. You know that." He drew her to him, lifted her face to his.

"Please."

"Sweet!" He kissed her suddenly, holding her close.

"Wild, please!" Lynn struggled away from him. "There's something I want to tell you. I—"

"What does anything matter—"

"Wild, Rene came north in a trailer. He didn't have much money, but he let me come along. I tried to pay my way by cooking our meals—"

"You mean you lived with him in his trailer?"

"Yes."

"For how long?"

Lynn tried to explain the whole thing, their arrival in New York, Rene's illness, and no money. She hesitated once, and then decided not to mention Mr. Mortimer. Lynn was horrified at how difficult that story was to tell. It sounded bald and cheap as she recounted it, Wild's eyes on hers.

"You were with him for weeks and months?"

"Yes."

"Were you in love with him, Lynn?"

"Of course, not. But he is the kindest person I've ever known."

"You weren't—sweethearts, Lynn?" Lynn's wide brown eyes met Wild's squarely.

"We weren't sweethearts, Wild, ever."

"I believe you, darling." He took her in his arms. "Now, never speak of that again. Never! It is forgotten!"

"But there's more"—Lynn made one more try to tell him about the wedding. How could she? It seemed so improbable, nobody would believe it.

"Not for you and me. I can read between the lines. You looked after him when he was sick, supported him until he got well. That's it, isn't it?"

"I owed it to him."

"And your debt's paid." Wild's arms were about her again. "Look at me!" Lynn buried her face in his shoulder to hide the tears in her eyes. But Wild persisted.

Veteran Cowpoke Says Wild Burro Hard to Capture

Undertakes Job of Rounding Them Up to Conserve Forage for Cattle.

FLORENCE, ARIZ.—Most people have the idea the burro is a stubborn, lazy animal who stands in one spot refusing to budge an inch, but Jim Hathaway, cowboy, insists the wild "mountain canary" is a harder animal to capture on the range than a wild mustang.

Hathaway, a veteran cowpoke who has undertaken the job of rounding up several hundred wild burros for transport to Phoenix stockyards, said he'd rather capture 20 mustangs than a single burro.

"They're the toughest, meanest, ornierest critters I ever tackled," Hathaway explained. "And they are smart, too. Why I chased one 'Jenny' across this valley before I caught her." (The Gila valley, in which Hathaway operates, is more than 50 miles long and equally as wide.)

Forage to Be Saved.

Burros are being captured so that forage needed for cattle may be saved. There is little profit in selling the animals but ranchers hired Hathaway to corral them because of the scarcity of feed this year.

Most of the animals Hathaway has captured never have been branded. They are renegade offspring of domestic burros that have been turned loose on the range. Most of them never have felt a rope or seen a man.

Hathaway said it required an elaborate strategy to trap a burro on the desert. He said the animals traveled in large herds numbering 50 or more, but scattered when they saw him approaching.

"Even after you finally catch them, you're only half through," he said. "Then you have to keep them caught."

"When they feel a rope, they're meaner than a mustang. They're regular squealing, pawing, biting, kicking whirlwinds."

Friend of Prospectors.

Another reason which makes Hathaway a trifle squeamish about his strange job is the attitude taken by old-time prospectors who regard the burro as almost a sacred animal.

As one Florence resident put it when he saw Hathaway jouncing down the street with a truckload of burros headed for the slaughterhouse:

"These prospectors are sentimental. They claim the burro was the main factor in the settling of the West. Claim that without them there'd be nothing here but sagebrush, mesquite and coyotes."

"Furthermore, they're willing to back their arguments with a .30-30 rifle."

"Yes, they sure have got a powerful hankering for a burro. You know, mister, I wouldn't have Hathaway's job on a bet."

Psychologist's Findings

Build Masculine Ego

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—The average man knows women better than the average woman knows men, Dr. Norman Frederiksen, Princeton university psychologist, told a meeting of the Eastern Psychologists association.

Dr. Frederiksen said stereotyped tests of 53 judges of both sexes, ranging from 13 years up, revealed men were much more agreed about women characteristics than women were about men, with the exception of the years 13 and 14.

In fact, Dr. Frederiksen insisted women's judgment of men becomes poorer with age.

Collie May Be Proud

Of Solid Gold Tooth

NEEDHAM, MASS.—When Laddie, a half-breed collie dog owned by Dr. Alby E. Hodgdon, bares his teeth he isn't angry—he's just proud of his bridgework.

Nine years ago the dog snapped a tooth gnawing a bone. So his master, a dentist, took impressions of the upper right incisor and in spare time made a solid gold replacement.

Dr. Hodgdon says the false tooth is practical because it helps Laddie in eating and also in positive identity in case the dog becomes lost.

SEATTLE, WASH.—A Seattle slaughterhouse uncovered a miniature bonanza when butchers came up with a 1928 penny from the brain of a Holstein cow. It was found in the left front section of the brain and was believed to have been "sniffed up" by the cow while the animal was grazing.

Church Singing Off Key

Serious in Early Days

BOSTON.—An ear for music was important in early American days. Historical Massachusetts records disclose that David Pond, of Franklin, was suspended from the First Congregational church in 1738 after that body in solemn deliberation determined that he was singing above the pitch.

PRaising GOD FOR HIS BLESSINGS

LESSON TEXT—Psalm 103:1-5, 10-13. GOLDEN TEXT—Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits.—Psalm 103:2.

We live in difficult and confusing days with much on every hand to discourage us. We look about us in vain for any encouraging sign. The result is that unless we exercise care the temptation will overtake us who are Christians to fall into the bitter, complaining attitude of the world, forgetting the benefits which God has bestowed upon us, forgetting His mercy and grace, and, in this hour of trial, telling the world by our life, if not by our lips, that we have lost our faith in God.

It is easy to praise God when all goes well, when we see His blessing upon us; but the Christian should recognize that praise is a vital part of his daily fellowship with God, an expression of his appreciation of all that God is and does for him. Psalm 103 has in all generations been a favorite of Christian people when passing through deep waters and fiery trials.

I. Praise for Personal Blessings (vv. 1-5).

Our relationship to God is a personal one, and His blessings are personal. Praise also is a personal soul exercise to which we need often to stir ourselves. We need to call on "all that is within" us to bless and praise the Lord.

"Forget not"—how prone we are to do that very thing. We remember the things we ought to forget and forget the things we ought to remember. We have become so accustomed to the many blessings of God that we accept them as a matter of course.

Note that the chief of all blessings is the forgiveness of sin (v. 3). The spiritual is far more important than the physical, but that too is included. Only God can heal our diseases, whether by means or by direct intervention. He also meets with true satisfaction every right and normal desire of man, whether it be physical, social, mental or spiritual. That calls for praise from the depths of our beings.

II. Praise for Forgiveness of Sin (vv. 10-14).

We may "put on a front" when we deal with our fellow men, but there is no use in thus trying to fool God. He knows us for what we are—"frail children of dust, and feeble as frail." We are not able to meet our own little problems; how can we do anything with the sin question?

The mercy of God, high as the heavens, is revealed nowhere in such overflowing measure as in His dealing with the sins of "them that fear him" (v. 13). For them He has the pity of a father, but He has more, for He has the authority and power to cast our sins as far from us as the east is from the west, and how far that is no one knows.

Observe that His mercy is only for "them that fear Him." "God resisteth the proud, but giveth grace unto the humble" (James 4:6, 7). Whosoever will may come and receive of Him abundant pardon. Why not come now?

III. Praise for Everlasting Loving-kindness (vv. 15-18).

Man and everything that man makes or does is transient, and will one day pass away. What a fool that man is who lives only for the things of this world which are destined to wither like the grass! How tragic to come into eternity and to face God empty handed and condemned for one's own selfishness and folly, when He is willing to show unto us that "loving-kindness" which is not only for this life, but also for the life that is to come.

As we praise God for this great and blessed gift, shall we not be moved to go out and seek to win others to Him?

In closing this brief study of the One Hundred Third Psalm may we again suggest that in these bitter days which so sorely try the hearts of men, we lift our souls up to a high spiritual plane by praising God. When Hardley Page was making a flight through the Orient a large rat was attracted by the smell of food and entered into the airplane. Later, when Mr. Page was in mid-air over a mountainous country where he could not land, he suddenly heard the sound of gnawing behind him. He knew that the rat might so damage his plane as to cause disaster. Then he remembered that a rat is not made for high altitudes. So he began to soar. Soon the gnawing ceased and hours later when his machine landed he found the rat lying dead beneath the engine. It is a blessed truth that Satan cannot endure the high altitudes of praise. He quickly departs from the soul whom he finds rejoicing in this high and lofty spiritual atmosphere. "Try praise," for "praise changes things."

PTA NEWS
September is here again with the opening of another school year; and as our first meeting always stresses membership, we urge all the parents to attend our first regular meeting Friday, Sept. 6th in the school gym at 2 p. m.

The following poem presents a word picture of our Parent Teacher groups:
Now Jones has been my neighbor for twenty years or more
But I have never liked him much,
He always made me sore,
He'd boast about his corn and spuds
While I raised Lucerne seed,
He'd rave about his Jersey cows
While mine were Holstein breed.
But then, I didn't know him well,
We didn't often meet.
He had his socialistic dreams, I knew
They'd come to grief;
And Jones he was a Methodist, while
I a Mormon rank;
I always knew that I was right, and
Jones was just a crank.
But Jones, he seems so changed of late. (I see him at the school)

We have a Parent Teacher meet each month now as a rule.
And Jones' boy sits next to mine,
and how those kids do sing;
The walls of our new schoolhouse
just fairly seem to ring.
And when the meetings over, why,
Jones and I feel good,
We talk about the weather and the price of corn and wood.
At last we've met on common ground, and I just think its grand.
The school that teaches our two kids has helped us to understand.

—Author Unknown
Isn't it descriptive, People who have lived as neighbors for many years can sit side by side in the school house with another common interest. The prayer of every good and wise parent is that his child will have all the advantages available, and that he will have a firm foundation for effective and socially responsible citizenship.

It takes wisdom, knowledge and understanding of children to accomplish this. Our programs are planned with this thought in mind. Friends and neighbors look forward each month to the talks and discussions which send them home feeling a little more keenly their responsibility of homemaking and children rearing in a rapidly changing world.

By joining our local PTA group you will show your child that you are interested in him, his teacher and the program of service the school and community together are offering and 165,000 members in Illinois can't be wrong.

A special meeting of the PTA was called on the evening of August 16th in regard to the disposal of the book rental system. It was decided to turn the system over to the Board of Education and the fund in the treasury applied on the two largest accounts.

The executive board of the PTA will meet at the school on Tuesday afternoon, Sept. 3rd at 2 o'clock.

—UDELE RINGBERG,
Publicity Chairman.
Rev. E. C. Barkow, Swansville, Minn., brother of Mrs. Albert Buddenhagen, Mrs. Wm. Hoferer and Gerda Hoferer, sister and niece of Rev. Alb. Buddenhagen, were guests at the Lutheran parsonage the past week.

A number of Tinley Park Legionnaires and their wives attended the Legion Convention at Danville last week. Walter Mager and L. D. Maxwell went as delegates from the Tinley Park Post. Others who attended the convention were: Chas. Wallin, Herman Freitag, Ray Jacobs, Adolph Ceithaml and Chas. Wolf who were with the Blue Island Legion Post drum corps. Members of the Auxiliary who attended the convention were: Mrs. Herman Freitag, Mrs. Adolph Ceithaml, Mrs. Chas. Wolf, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hansen, Dorothy, Ruth Ceithaml, Myrtle Wolf, Mrs. L. D. Maxwell, Mrs. Henry Strassenburg, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Henke and children, Virginia Rick.

The village board will hold their next regular meeting Sept. 10th.

Rev. and Mrs. Chas. Hedler of Newaygo, Michigan have been visiting with Tinley Park friends the past week. Rev. Mr. Hedler was a former pastor of the local Methodist church.

The Elmore McArthur family are moving into their new home next to Mel's Service Station today.

Several new homes are under construction in the south Elmore subdivision. There is a big demand for homes in Tinley Park, either to rent or buy.

Mrs. August Goebel who has been visiting with Tinley relatives returned to her home in Overton, Nebraska Sunday.

Mrs. Lutz of Springfield is visiting with her father, Henry Glog-warzt.

Mr. Van Volkenberg is building a new home in the vicinity of the Tinley Park Dairy plant with which he is associated.

SCHOOL OPENS SEPT. 3rd

The Tinley Park public school is to reopen for the new school year Tuesday morning, Sept. 3rd. Owing to the large number of pupils a new room has been outfitted and a new teacher engaged. The faculty will be as follows: Glenn Sandbell, principal, Mrs. Helen Sandidge, Miss Florence Farrar, Mrs. Leona Buys, Mrs. Rachal Hesbel, Mrs. May Robinson, Mrs. Jean Rauhoff and the new teacher whose name has not been announced.

Republican Women Organize

On Monday, Aug. 26, a meeting was held at the home of Mrs. E. L. Babcock for the purpose of organizing a Woman's Republican Organization. The meeting was very nicely attended and the following were elected officers:

Mrs. E. L. Babcock, Pres., Mrs. T. A. Reimer, Treas., Mrs. Ruth Bacon, Secretary.

The purpose of the organization being every one to work for the good of the Republican party and also for instructions in politics.

Meetings are to be held at least once a month. The next meeting to be held on Tuesday, Sep. 10 at 8:00 p.m. Place of meeting to be announced later.

The organization is to be known as "The Republican Woman's Organization of Bremen Township."

All Republican women of Bremen township are invited to come to the next meeting and enjoy a good time as well as an instructive one.

John Clay Co. Reports On Hog And Cattle Market

An active consumer demand for beef and pork over last week end brought retailers hurriedly early this week to wholesalers plants to replenish depleted meat stocks. The result was a higher trade in dressed meat which in turn caused processors to enter the cattle and hog markets with loosened pursestrings. The recent sharp advance in lamb prices, however, slowed down demand for fat lambs.

Prices covering all dry fed cattle moved up to a new high basis for the season, while hogs reached the highest peak since last October. Lambs receded a little from last week's high-flying close. Recent rains revived parched pastures and lamb feeder inquiry increased. Little was available in the lamb line to take care of finishers requirements. Feeder lambs are nominally quoted as high as $8.90.

Fall runs of stocker and feeder cattle are moving marketward in liberal numbers, offering prospective purchasers an excellent opportunity to select well-doing stock for grazing and further finishing. Choice steer calves are selling as high as $11; yearlings, $10; feeder steers for a short turn, $10.25. Plainier classes of the forementioned classes may be had at cheaper rates.

We are approaching the end of the sow marketing season, which should mean a smaller yield of lard, but the record stocks of that product on hand may keep "lard" hog prices under pressure. A new government grading regulation covering lard will, it is estimated, reduce by approximately 15 per cent the amount of hog fat now being used in the production of lard.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES
"Mind" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, August 25.

The Golden Text was, "Blessed be the name of God for ever and ever: for wisdom and might are his: . . . he giveth wisdom unto the wise, and knowledge to them that know understanding" (Daniel 2:20, 21).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Who hath directed the Spirit of the Lord, or being his counsellor hath taught him? With whom took he counsel, and who instructed him, and taught him in the path of judgment, and taught him knowledge, and shewed to him the way of understanding?" (Isaiah 40:13, 14).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "There can be but one Mind, because there is but one God; and if mortals claimed no other Mind and accepted no other, sin would be unknown. We can have but one Mind, if that one is infinite. We bury the sense of infinitude, when we admit that, although God is infinite, evil has a place in this infinity, for evil can have no place, where all space is filled with God" (p. 469).

MARLEY

Mrs. Loren Sass

The Marley Sunday Evening club will sponsor a carnival Saturday night, Sept. 7th on the church grounds. There will be refreshments, bingo and concessions of all kinds. A radio will also be awarded.

MOKENASPONSORS BRIDAL SHOWER

A very lovely bridal shower was given last Friday night by Mrs. John Marti in honor of Mrs. Edwin Shustedt of Chicago, formerly Edna Newel. Several games were played during the evening, with prizes being awarded Mrs. Roy Cleveland, Mrs. Robert Ebeling and also the bride. Later a corsage of pink gladiolus was presented the bride, and from a sprinkling can decorated with white and pink many beautiful gifts were showered for her.

Refreshments were served from a table decorated with a miniature bride and groom. The centerpiece was an arrangement of white gladiolus and sheafs of white gladiolus tied with white ribbon on each end of the table. Mrs. Cleveland poured. The guests present were: Miss Mary Brady of Chicago, Mrs. Cleveland, Tinley Park, Mrs. Ebeling, Orland Park, Mrs. Franklin Evans, the Misses Edith Pearson and Loleita Bettenhausen of Joliet, Mrs. Harvey Morgan, Frankfort, Mrs. Melvin Whitaker of New Lenox, Mrs. Herman Schweser, Mrs. Norval Robinson, Mrs. Paul Meyers, Misses Ethel Sorensen, Helen Nielsen and Grace Nielsen of Mokena.

The teachers and officers of the Methodist S. School will meet Sept. 9 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Shoop.

The Royal Neighbors will meet in the public school Sept. 3rd.

The Mokena Garden Club will meet at the home of Mrs. Milton Geuther on Tuesday, Sept. 3rd. It is the annual meeting for election of officers and all members are urged to be present.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Semmler and daughters Adeline and Ada motored to Newaygo, Michigan last Friday to spend a few days with their cousins Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Houchin in their summer home on the Muskegon River. A few miles down the river is the Hardy dam, said to be the largest earth filled dam in the country. It was built about three years ago at a cost of five million dollars. The dam operates a hydro-electric plant and furnishes electricity to many cities and towns in that part of the state. Practically all the summer homes have electricity.

Saturday night the visitors enjoyed a dance at the "Oxbow" hayloft dance hall nearby. Square dances predominated.

The trip led thru a fruit country. The peach crop is especially heavy, many of the trees were so heavily laden with the fruit that the limbs of the trees had to be propped up.

Mr. Houchin had caught a nice mess of fish and a fish fry was enjoyed Friday night. Saturday morning a row boat trip was taken up the river. Tuesday Mr. Houchin caught a rainbow trout, and it is said this type of fish is not often caught in the Muskegon river.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Deadmore of Joliet who stayed in the Semmler home during the latter's absence, entertained their pinophile club Saturday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Bert Spiess as host and hostess. Guests besides those mentioned were Mr. and Mrs. August Hauck, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Lauffer, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Spiess of Mokena and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Feil, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Dammann of Joliet. Prizes were awarded and refreshments were served.

Miss Marion Leonhardt of Joliet has been spending the week with her cousin, Miss Jean Shevlin.

Miss Kathryn Reid visited a week in Cable, Wis., as a guest of Miss Mariys Krapp.

Emil Krapp has returned from an extended visit with his son Milton and family at Cable, Wis.

Jean Rueckert is spending this week with her aunt in Moline, Ill.

The Book Club nominating committee met Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Hugo Nisthammer.

The village board will meet next Tuesday night.

ORLAND PARKORLAND PARK WOMAN'S CLUB ACTIVITIES

A Silver Tea was given by Mrs. Paul Sanders, American Home Chairman at the Community Center Foundation Thursday of last week.

Mrs. Sanders, a very gracious hostess, received the members and guests in the recreation room where a delightful fire was glowing in the fireplace and candles burning all of which created a very homey atmosphere.

Miss Stella M. Robbin, who has traveled around the world gave an interesting talk on "Homes and Customs of the People in the Orient". To demonstrate the style of clothing worn by the natives, Miss Robbins had Miss Barbara Wooten model a Hindu Saree, Miss Betty Brown a Japanese street kimono, Miss Lila Kay a Chinese dress and Mrs. James Pomeroy a hand embroidered Chinese coat. Mrs. Sanders was charmingly attired in a colonial costume.

Bohemian tea, rice cakes, sand bars and cashew nuts were served by the models.

The guests were Miss Clara Myrick, Mrs. Lucille Barton, Mrs. Elsen Oranger, Mrs. Willie Listen and Mrs. Frank Wooten.

Everyone present enjoyed a pleasant afternoon.

The Fire Underwriters tested the new Orland Park fire truck Monday and found it giving more service than it is rated for. The pump is rated for 500 gallons per minute, but during the test it pumped close to 700 gallons per minute. The test was made at the Orland Lake.

Mr. Hewson, member of the village board is ill with pneumonia.

The Orland Park Fire Department have returned the fire truck they had borrowed from the LaGrange Fire Department while the new Orland fire truck was being built.

The Methodist Guild met at the church Thursday.

The Adult Bible Class of the local Methodist church will resume their monthly meetings in September, the first meeting of the autumn season is to be held Sept. 11th.

Due to a lack of a quorum the Orland Park village board did not hold their bi-monthly meeting set for Monday night.

NEW BOOKS AT ORLAND PARK LIBRARY

The following are among the donations just placed on the library shelf:

Romances and novels by: Dell-Kester and Porter. Westerns and Adventure by: Gregory-Hendryx-London. Mysteries by: Edington-Rohmer.

Who's who in America, 1938-1939. Encyclopedia of social usage, also the following new novels:

Bridge. "Four-part setting" (an Englishwoman trying to entangle her martial troubles in China)

Holden. "Believe the heart" a story of faith.

And for the youngsters, books about Dr. Dolittle, Oz, Hitty and many others of interest.

Due to error it was stated in last week's column that Miss Lucille Cooper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Cooper was married April 15th, which should have read August 10, 1940.

The Orland Royal Neighbor camp are preparing for the celebration of the birthday of the camp sometime in September.

Invitations have been issued to the Mokena, Tinley Park and Chicago Heights Camps to attend this celebration.

Dr. and Mrs. Leavitt left Wednesday on an automobile trip to Washington, D. C.

The demonstration recently held by the Public Service Co., on the John Cooper Electrified farm near Orland Park was very interesting. A representative of the Public Service pointed out the many advantages of using electricity and called attention to the I. E. S. lighting and the fully electrified kitchen and laundry in the Cooper home.

Quite a number of Orland township residents have been attending the State Fair in Springfield the past week.

Fred Ingraham is operating his roasted peanuts wagon at the Peotone Fair this week.

The Orland Park public school and three year high school opens next Tuesday morning.

The Orland Park Fire Department will take part with their new truck in the Lemont Fire Department parade in Lemont on Labor Day.

Mrs. Herbert Kohlhaagen

Miss Mae Nieland was the guest of honor at a shower given by Mrs. Milton R. Holl, 12 W. Jackson St., at the Sievert's Tea Room in Joliet Wednesday night. A two course supper was served at 6:30 o'clock at a long table attractively decorated with a centerpiece of blue and yellow flowers. Aeroplane bunco was played at five tables and prizes won by Mrs. Fred Lewis, Miss Violet Dedmore and Mrs. Bertha Nieland. Guest prizes were given the guest of honor who was later presented with a chest of silverware from the group.

Thursday night Mrs. Clark Bennett entertained at a kitchen shower in honor of Miss Nieland. Aeroplane bunco was played at five tables and prizes were awarded to Mrs. Henry Gephth, Jr., and Mrs. Bertha Nieland who in turn presented them to the bride-to-be. Persistence and Patience Works Miracle for Girl

Kept in Dark Room by Mute Mother; Educators Do Great Job.

COLUMBUS, OHIO. — "Look—look! Watch me skate!" commanded a chubby figure in a green cotton frock and a wee, man tailored jacket that its owner proudly calls "my little tweed coat"—just before she swished down the entrance drive to Children's hospital.

And her visitors did watch the spring sprite on skates—marveling at the miracle that time, patience, persistence and understanding guidance have wrought. For the gay little girl was Annabelle Barton, eight years old, of Mount Vernon, Ohio, patient in Children's hospital at Columbus, Ohio, who 17 months before had never uttered more than five syllables—had never ventured from the dark room wherein she and her mute-mother made their home—had never taken more than a few steps on her piteously barrel-bowed legs.

Trudging up the slope she came on her rollers, the successful results of two corrective operations quite apparent in her sturdy legs.

Trustful and Social. "Stay and watch me skate," she begged, tossing her fair hair out of her blue-gray eyes that clouded with concern when she noticed that we were sitting on the cold cement, waiting for her to reach the end of her climb. "You'll catch cold," she warned. "You'd better get up."

Annabelle, the hospital's most obedient boarder, is the pet of the staff. And, as a return compliment for the attention that she attracts, Annabelle has decided to become a nurse.

"When I grow up," she repeated with emphasis, "that's what I'll be—a nurse."

Annabelle delights in singing or whistling nursery rhymes and hymns, encircling the playroom rug innumerable times to the strains of martial music and practicing the piano.

In the beginning, of course, it was a constant drumming of words and their relations to objects into her untuned ears by Miss Marie K. Mason and Dr. G. Oscar Russell, both of Ohio State university's speech department, in an effort to ascertain whether she could hear, whether she could talk.

Then when inquisitive Annabelle reached the "what is it and why" stage her learning became as thrilling to hospital staff members as baby's first sentences are to his parents.

Educators Take Hold.

What stimulated the metamorphosis of Annabelle? you may ask. The answer lies with a group of intelligent, sympathetic educators from Ohio State university, including Miss Mason, Dr. Russell, Dr. Francis N. Maxfield of the psychology department and several student teachers, as well as the hospital attendants.

"Almost everybody around here has taught Annabelle something," surmised Miss Janson.

At the present Annabelle is wringing her brow over the three rudiments of elementary education—"reading," "ritin," and "rithmetic." She is busy, too, acquiring the little niceties and courtesies of conventional living that she hitherto had ignored.

Annabelle has made remarkable progress in this rehabilitation program. Her mental age lingers but one-half year under normal level and her associates consider that but little short of phenomenal.

Crack Jokes on Knuckles, And Take the Rap for It

TIJUANA, MEXICO.—It cost two Los Angeles deaf-mutes $50 each to "crack jokes on the knuckles" before Francisco Dominguez, chief of the federal traffic police.

The youths were arrested on a reckless driving charge. They engaged in animated finger talk before Dominguez.

Said one: "These cops are dumb. We won't have to pay any money." "So?" said Dominguez, "cracking jokes on the knuckles, eh? That will cost you $50 each."

The chief, it seems, knows the language of mutes.

Stolen Dollar Returned

After 14 Years' Lapse

SPOKANE.—Fourteen years ago a boy stole $1 from the Sunday school funds of the Westminster Congregational church.

Early this year the boy's Sunday school teacher, J. S. Buchholz, reported the youth—since grown into a man—had returned the $1 because the theft preyed upon his conscience. With it was a quarter he had stolen from Buchholz himself.

Buchholz kept the quarter and turned the $1 over to the church's missionary fund.

Just Dazed

PHILADELPHIA.—Mrs. Wilbera Henry's automobile stalled, so she asked her husband to give it a push. Henry pushed. The car went forward, shot across the street, knocked a parked automobile onto the sidewalk and sheared the steps off a state liquor store. Mrs. Henry was unhurt, just dazed.

Steals Car to Get Cake, Is Arrested

FALLS CITY, NEB. — Ralph Beachy blames his taste for grandma's spiced cakes for getting him into trouble. The 18-year-old Kansas City youth, arrested on an auto theft charge, explained to officers he didn't mean to steal a car—he just wanted to come here for some of Mrs. Dora M. Beachy's cake.

Ape Colony Like Modern Business

Group Has President and Vice President.

HUMACAO, PUERTO RICO.—The monkeys that are most like men live under an economic system much similar to modern business corporations run by human beings. They are headed by a president. In the president's absence his job is taken over by a first vice president.

This evidence that our business system may have its start back in the treetops ages ago was revealed on Monkey island, which lies a quarter mile out in the Atlantic ocean from this little town on Puerto Rico's eastern coast, by Dr. C. R. Carpenter, famous primatologist, who has been living among and studying the world's only eugenic monkey colony.

These monkeys are the Rhesus type. Because they are the most like men, they are preferred for scientific experiments. All pure specimens, they were brought to the island by the School of Tropical Medicine of San Juan in conjunction with Columbia university, and are maintained under controlled conditions intended to keep them free of disease.

The biggest herd in the colony is bossed, Dr. Carpenter discovered, by a husky male known as "No. 160." All the other monkeys toe the line when he is around. He gets first chance at whatever food is available. Wherever "160" goes another big male, known as "174," goes along. Now "174" whatever keeps an eye on "160." Whatever "160" indicates is the thing to do "174" does. Consequently, the doctor said, he was not surprised when he learned that "174" was the first vice president of "160's" firm. This was proved by looking up "160" and seeing who would take his place at the head of the herd. And "174" did, and was accepted without a sign of dissatisfaction.

Kills Self With Dynamite

After Quarrel With Wife

BOULDER, COLO. — George Schmitz, 22 years old, blew himself to bits with six sticks of dynamite as the climax of a domestic quarrel. His 17-year-old wife, her parents and two policemen watched the suicide.

One policeman lost his right hand in the blast, which wrecked the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Smith, parents of Schmitz's wife, and damaged a nearby church and residence. Physicians said Patrolman Frank Devoss, 25, might die of his injuries. Patrolman Myron Teegarden, 41, was injured slightly and Mrs. Schmitz and her parents were shaken, police said.

The young couple have been living in Denver but came here recently after a quarrel, according to police. Attempts at reconciliation had failed and Schmitz came to the Smith home armed with the six sticks of dynamite and a battery and switch.

Schmitz threatened to blow up the entire family, the police report said. While his wife argued with him, her father called police and the two patrolmen responded. They joined members of the family in trying to dissuade Schmitz, but he finally shouted, "I'll blow you all up," and exploded the dynamite.

Iowan Falls Ten Floors;

Lives to Tell About It

DES MOINES.—Keith Bown of Chariton, Iowa, who tumbled 130 feet from an eleventh floor hotel window to the hood of a parked automobile in the street below and lived to tell about it, has been dismissed from the hospital.

Physicians said he still had a fractured leg and an arm in casts, but in a few weeks will be "as good as ever." Bown fell on May 11.

Doctors said Bown's brain concussion that resulted from a small fracture had "entirely cleared up."

Ghost's Revenge Becomes

Policeman's Dilemma

HOPKINSVILLE, KY.—Hopkinsville police believe their patrol car is marked. Four times in three years and twice since August a driverless automobile has slid down the Main street hill and whammed into the patrol. The police car, in each case, was parked in front of headquarters. Although at each time other automobiles were parked near by, the patrol car was the only one hit by the driverless car.

Too Much Zeal

MAYFIELD, KY.—A county constable spied the name, John Doe, on a slate of jail prisoners. He got busy at once. He hurried to the county judge's office and gathered all the dust-covered warrants issued against "John Doe." Back he went to the jail. There the jailer explained about "Doe's" identity.

MOKENA

Mrs. Ella Waldrup of Joliet, mother of Mrs. Morris Larson, passed away in the Silver Cross hospital in Joliet last Friday following an operation. Funeral services were held from the funeral home in Lockport Sunday. Burial was made in Woodlawn Cemetery, Joliet.

Marlyn, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Larson, while taking a bath last Sunday, touched an electric light bulb which in some way gave her an electrical shock and threw her in the tub, breaking her collar bone. It is fortunate that the shock did not harm her more.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank all Mokena friends who were so kind to me in every way in my recent bereavement in the loss of my mother. I also thank all who sent so many lovely floral offerings.

Labor Day Parades At Legion Carnival

Labor Day in Blue Island will be celebrated with a parade of 25 to 30 Junior Legion Drum and Bugle corps as a climax to the Fifth Annual American Legion festival there which has been in progress since August 26.

The units will be striving for more than $300 in cash awards, announces Arthur Helwig, chairman of the celebration. The parade will march through the gaily decorated Western avenue business district starting at 3 p. m. and wind up at the festival grounds at 123rd and Gregory, where 20 organizations besides the Legion have various concessions.

An automobile is to be awarded that evening as part of the festivities.

On Saturday night the final choice for the honor of Miss American Legion will be made among the ten competing Blue Island girls. Winners will receive wardrobe awards valued at more than $400 and be entertained at a banquet.

Girls in the contest are Lois Jensen, Ruth Helen Schultz, Olga Machay, Della Cook, Lois Brunner, Virginia Burmeister, Anne Tuinenega, Leone Wilson, Hazel Mattson and Margaret Leppellere.

Maurice J. Dalton, 12735 Greenwood Ave., is co-chairman with Mr. Helwig on the Legion Week com.

Largest Crowd In Years Take Part In Republican Rally

One of the largest crowds that ever attended a Republican Day Rally at the Illinois State Fair gathered in Springfield Wednesday August 21, and heard Republican candidates solemnly discuss issues in the present campaign.

Newspaper estimates placed the crowd at between 150,000 and 200,000 persons. The huge grandstand, with a seating capacity of 10,000 persons, was overflowing and the infield was jammed with parked cars. There was an air of confidence prevalent throughout the famous State Fair grounds Wednesday compared to an atmosphere of fear and doubtfulness displayed by Democrats as they attended so-called Governors Day on Thursday.

There were no generals, high up in state payroll brackets, to command the attendance of 60,000 pay-rollers at the fair on Republican Day, yet it was the consensus of opinion of independent newspaper men that Republican Day outdrew Democratic Day, both in enthusiasm and in attendance.

Dwight H. Green, Republican nominee for Governor, sounded the battle cry of Republicanism for the fall campaign in his address when he said, "This campaign has been swept up and beyond mere contest between two major political forces, and on a mighty surge of political fervor, has become truly a crusade. It is the exultant, triumphant voice of aroused Americanism. Its sweep and power are irresistible. My belief is that such force cannot be beaten. Such spirit as is now being manifested cannot be frustrated."

Closing his address with a blast at the Democratic boss-controlled political machine in Illinois and expressing himself as being confident of victory in November Green said, "I am confident as I am standing here now that you want for your governor some one who will not be bossed by any political machine. I am confident you want the Kelly-Nash-Nudelman machine smashed forever. I am confident that on Nov. 5, with Republicans, constitutional and Jeffersonian Democrats, independent voters and the youth here today, all interested in restoring representative government to our state, we will crush the Kelly-Nash-Nudelman machine under the weight of the greatest plurality ever known in Illinois."

Wayland Asks Give 'Em Broomsticks?

C. Wayland Brooks, nominee for U. S. Senator, in an extemporaneous address referred to President Roosevelt as "the leader of a party of internationalists and unpreparedness that is leading us into war."

What are they going to do?" he asked. "Give our boys broomsticks and let them play war. Modern war is fought with tanks and airplanes. Give industry a chance to build tanks and planes. Let us be prepared before we send our boys to battle."

Republican Picnic

Chas. A. Halleck, the Congressman from Indiana, who rose to national prominence with his nominating speech for Willkie at the convention in Philadelphia, will be the principal speaker at the annual Labor Day picnic of the Republican Cook County Central Committee, it was announced this week by John T. Dempsey, county chairman.

The picnic will be held in the picnic grove of Riverview Park next Monday, Sept. 2.

Free tickets are being distributed through the regular ward and country town organizations, and may also be obtained in room 313 of the LaSalle Hotel.

In addition to Congressman Halleck, speeches will also be delivered by Dwight H. Green, candidate for Governor, and C. Wayland Brooks, candidate for United States Senator. Judge Oscar F. Nelson, who for 15 years was vice-president of the Chicago Federation of Labor, and disnow the Republican candidate for State's Attorney, will give the annual speech for labor.

Senator Arthur J. Bidwill, who is in charge of picnic arrangements, stated that there would be more prizes given this year than ever before. Among these prizes will be all-expense tours to New York and Washington, washing machines, pianos, and 1000 valuable items.

State May Have To Raise Relief Taxes

Unless many Illinois counties take immediate steps to improve their administration of relief funds, the next session of the state legislature will have to provide for still more taxes to raise revenues for public assistance, warns, John C. Watson, director of taxation for the Illinois Agricultural Association.

In an article in the July issue of the IAA RECORD, now in the mail to more than 95,000 Illinois farmers, Watson says that relief appropriations in the 1939 regular session of the general assembly, plus increased old-age assistance appropriations in the recent special session, threaten to soak up the state treasury's general fund before the end of the present calendar year. If this happens, he says, new taxes will have to be provided, despite a constant increase in revenue from the retailers' occupational tax.

COOL DRINKS ARE REFRESHING ON HOT SUMMER DAYS
(Recipes Below.)

Household News

By Eleanor Howe

Even on the stickiest, hottest summer day, a good tart, icy drink will refresh you. Fruit drinks, in particular, are good; when you drink a frosty tumbler of lemonade or chilled orange juice, you not only feel cooler, you are cooler. Fresh fruit drinks actually ward off the heat of summer.

Fruit beverages provide the minerals and vitamins the body requires, and, because of the sugar added for sweetening, are fairly high in food energy.

It's very easy to serve "soda fountain specials" at home. Any combination of fruit juices makes a delightful and refreshing beverage—provided some of the more tart juices, such as those from lemons, slightly sour oranges, or rhubarb—are used to keep the beverage from tasting too sweet and flat. Use slices of orange or lemon, mint leaves, whole, fresh or canned cherries or berries, for garnishing. Ice cubes for chilling fruit drinks or iced tea might be frozen from orange or lemon juice, to avoid diluting the beverage. Mint leaves, bits of lemon peel or cherries can be frozen into the cubes. For iced coffee, pour some of the coffee into the freezing tray of your refrigerator, and freeze. Then use the coffee cubes for chilling the drink.

Sugar syrup, used for sweetening, is easily mixed throughout the whole drink, and makes a smoother tasting, smoother textured drink, than when unmelted sugar has been added. To make the sugar syrup, boil 4 cups of sugar with 4 cups of water, for 10 minutes. Pour into clean, hot jars, and seal. Store in refrigerator, and use as needed.

Serve crisp cookies or dainty sandwiches with iced drinks for simple afternoon or evening refreshments.

Lemonade.
Follow these three rules if you want to make perfect lemonade: Use fresh lemon juice and plenty of it; sweeten to the taste of each—not too much sweetening for folks who like it sour—sweeter for those with a sweet tooth; use ice and more ice. For each person served, allow:

- 1 lemon
- 1 to 2 tablespoons sugar or honey
- 1 cup cold water

Ice
Extract lemon juice. Add sugar or honey to taste. Stir to dissolve. Add water. Serve over ice in large glasses. Garnish with lemon slice on rim of glass. To make lemon fizz, make lemonade with carbonated water.

"Simple Desserts for Summer Menus" is an article you'll want to read. Watch for it in this column next week.

Sugar Cookies.

- ¼ cup butter
 - ½ cup granulated sugar
 - 1 egg, well beaten
 - 1½ cups pastry flour
 - 1 teaspoon baking powder
 - ¼ teaspoon salt
 - 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- Cream butter, add sugar and egg. Sift dry ingredients and add with the extracts. Flour and sugar the board and roll the cookies on it. Dust heavily with sugar, roll it in a little, cut in cookie shapes, and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) 10 to 12 minutes.

Chocolate Chip Ice Cream.

- (Makes 1 gallon)
- 1 cup sugar
- ½ cup flour
- 2 quarts milk (scalded)
- 4 eggs (separated)
- 4 teaspoons vanilla
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 2 cups semi-sweet chocolate (cut in bits)

Combine sugar and flour, and add scalded milk slowly. Then cook over low heat, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Beat egg yolks, and blend with ½ cup of the hot mixture, then add to the custard, together with vanilla and salt. Chill. Pour into the freezing compartment

Is Father fussy about his food? Then you'll surely want Eleanor Howe's cook book, "Feeding Father." It has loads of recipes for the foods father likes best—recipes which have been tested and approved by homemakers as well as fathers! You can have a copy of this cook book by sending 10 cents in coin. Address your letter to "Feeding Father," care of Eleanor Howe, 919 N. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

of ice cream freezer. Pour in the stiffly beaten egg whites, assemble the freezer, and cover. Pack with mixture of three parts crushed ice to one part rock salt. Freeze, until turning becomes difficult. Remove dasher, fold in chocolate, and pack down the cream with a spoon. Cover, and allow to ripen for one hour before serving.

Pineapple Raspberry Punch.
(Serves 25)
6 cups crushed pineapple
6 cups raspberry juice
3 quarts gingerale
Crushed ice

Mix crushed pineapple and the raspberry juice thoroughly. Just before serving, add gingerale and ice.

Fool Proof Cookies.
(Yield 3 dozen)
2 cups flour
½ cup brown sugar
¾ cup butter

Mix and sift flour and sugar together. Then work butter into the mixture with the finger tips, forming a soft dough. Roll to ½-inch in thickness and cut with cookie cutter in any desired shape. Brush with yolk of one egg, beaten, and diluted with ¾ teaspoon water. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) approximately 12 minutes.

Chocolate Freeze.
(Makes 4 large glasses)
4 tablespoons sugar
4 tablespoons cocoa
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup boiling water
2 cups milk (scalded)
½ teaspoon vanilla
Crushed ice
Whipped cream

Combine sugar, cocoa and salt. Add boiling water and cook for 2 minutes. Remove from fire, and combine with scalded milk. Pour into glasses filled with crushed ice, and serve with a spoonful of whipped cream garnishing each glass.

Blackberry Cocktail.
(Serves 4)
Mix together 2 cups blackberry juice, 1 cup orange juice, ¼ cup lemon juice, and 1 cup water. Add ¼ cup sugar syrup and blend. Pour over ice and shake thoroughly. Garnish with very thin slices of orange.

Sugar syrup—Boil 1 cup water and 2 cups sugar together for 1 minute.

Iced Coffee.
Make coffee a little stronger than usual. Cool, and serve in tall glasses filled with cracked ice. Top with whipped cream. If desired, cream may be poured on the ice before the coffee is added.

Iced Tea.
Rinse teapot with boiling water. Place tea in pot, allowing one teaspoon of the tea per cup. Pour freshly boiling water over the tea leaves and allow to steep, not boil, for 3 to 5 minutes. Pour tea over chipped ice, to cool it quickly. Serve in tall glasses garnished with lemon slices and sprigs of mint.

Some Pointers For Those Who Sleep Lightly

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

THE story has been told for many years about a member of a household who complained of her inability to sleep. She said she was a very light sleeper, the slightest noise would awaken her, and, once awake, it would be hours before she got off to sleep again. It happened one night that there was a large fire directly across the street, so large, indeed, that a "general" alarm was sounded and with it, the usual noises of sirens and shouting. Everybody in the house was awakened and watched the proceedings for hours; everybody except the nonsleeper and she had taken no drugs to make her sleep.

The point is that most of us get more sleep than we think we do. The minutes that we are awake during the night seem like hours and the hours we sleep seem like minutes.

In searching for the cause of insomnia or sleeplessness, there are certain definite ailments, such as a brain tumor and high blood pressure that should be considered. There are also cases of disturbed rest due to poor mattresses or springs, too much light, unusual noises, worries or problems, pain, temperature of room too high or too low, the wrong kind or too much food at evening meal or before retiring.

Most insomnia patients respond well to a hot bath before retiring if they will go to bed in the darkness immediately after the bath. In mental hospitals where there are both the depressed and the excitable types, the hot bath for some minutes is often used to induce and prolong sleep.

The Question of Drugs.
What about drugs? It would be safe to say that there have been more new drugs to produce sleep and relieve pain placed on the market in the last few years than nearly all other new drugs for other conditions combined. In cases where there has been severe emotional disturbance causing sleeplessness, the use of these new drugs is considered justified. Such simple methods as the hot bath, a hot drink, hot water bag to stomach, light exercise before retiring, should also be tried before the use of the sleeping tablet should be permitted.

Pollen Now Used in Cure of Hay Fever

THE fall weed hay fever season begins toward the end of July in southern districts and from the middle to the end of August in the northern, and ends with the first frost.

In addition to the above mentioned symptoms, there may be headaches, weakness and tiredness, and slight asthmatic symptoms.

To detect the particular pollen causing the hay fever, skin tests and also tests by eating suspected foods or inhaling (breathing in) other substances are used. This, in most cases, locates the pollen or other substances to which the individual is sensitive or allergic.

Injections of Pollen Extract.
The treatment now generally used is to try to make the patient less sensitive or allergic to the substance—ragweed pollen in most cases—to which he is sensitive. This is done by injecting small quantities of pollen extract under the skin once or twice a week for six to eight weeks before the hay fever season usually appear. Most physicians prefer to start the injections not less than three to four months before the hay fever season as it allows much more pollen extract to be given and thus a better chance to get the system desensitized to the ragweed pollen.

With the arrival of the hay fever season, the injections are continued but the dose is reduced to one-half. If you are subject to hay fever you should consult your physician at once about the use of the pollen extract. Most family physicians now give these injections regularly.

QUESTION BOX

Q.—What would be helpful in healing and preventing recurrence of a varicose ulcer of the leg?

A.—Usual treatment is to remove, by injection or surgery, any varicose veins near the ulcer.

Q.—Are there any injections to render one immune from ivy, oak and sumac poisoning?

A.—Your own physician can use these injections. Ask him about them in your case.

HOW TO SEW

by Ruth Wyeth Spears

KITCHEN showers are fun for everyone and, while they are always supposed to be a surprise, the prospective bride will be wise to give out a broad hint as to her color scheme. The dearest wish of one bride-to-be was a kitchen in gay Mexican colors. Her friends had a wonderful time selecting everything from pottery to peeling knife handles in tones of green, orange and red. One gift that was appreciated most of all was the apron, curtain and tea towel set sketched here.

This set was made from muslin flour and sugar bags. Muslin by the yard would do just as well, and I have shown in the sketch how the gingham facings and bias tape trimming were applied to add the correct touch of color. If you have never cut an apron without a special pattern, you will find directions in Book 4 along with ideas for more aprons and other fascinating things to make for almost nothing.

NOTE: As a service to our readers Mrs. Spears has prepared a series of homemaking booklets. Booklet 5 just published contains 32 pages of clever ideas fully illustrated; and a description of the other numbers in the series. Booklets are 10 cents each to cover cost and mailing. Send order to:

Good Counsel

To awaken each morning with a smile brightening my face; to greet the day with reverence for the opportunities it contains; to approach my work with a clean mind; to hold ever before me, even in the doing of little things, the Ultimate Purpose toward which I am working; to meet men and women with laughter on my lips and love in my heart; to be gentle, kind, and courteous; to approach night with weariness that woos sleep and joy that comes from work well done—this way I desire to waste wisely my days.

("Nazi Germany has prohibited the enameling of nails by women, also lip rouge and the wearing of slacks in public. It brands these customs as pagan."—News item.)

To slaughter and to pillage
Is quite a proper course;
One bombs the Red Cross emblem
Without the least remorse;
To lie and trick and threaten

Is something big and fine
But polished nails and lip rouge—
They are a pagan sign!

To tear up written treaties—
Ah, that is quite okay;
To break the solemn promise—
It's done by us each day!
To jump on little nations
Is not wrong in the least,
But lacquer on a lady—
It truly marks the beast!

Machine-gunning the aged
Is something done in stride;
Great racial persecutions
Just help to swell our pride;
A blitzkrieg is a process

Most civilized and gay—
But fingernails when colored
They mark the heathen way.

To set the world on fire
Is quite a normal act;
To terrorize a planet
Is normal; it's a fact!
The U-boat and the bomber
We do not think unkind
But slacks upon a woman
Reveal a savage mind.

A gas mask on a baby,
Ah, there's a pretty sight!
An ambulance when burning
Is perfectly all right;
A child in bombproof shelter
Is nothing very sad,
But lip rouge on a woman—
Ach, Gott! but that is bad!

Tokyo is terribly indignant because Uncle Sam has decided not to sell her any more gasoline. Nations that chase democracies up dark alleys and run over them every chance they get can't see what on earth could make a democracy stop furnishing the gas and oil.

The treasury department reports that there were only 50 Americans in 1938 with incomes of more than a million dollars. And nobody is more surprised over it than the Americans with the incomes.

Crops Get a Good Start with the McCORMICK-DEERING Little Genius Plow

THE whole scheme of crop production hinges on good plowing. It pays to have the best plows you can get. McCormick-Deering Plows have three generations of plow-building experience behind them and are as good as money can buy.

The Little Genius Tractor Plow in 2, 3, and 4-furrow sizes is one of the most popular plows in the McCormick-Deering line. It is built to stand up in any field and to do good, clean work under all conditions. Its parts are held in true alignment even in the hardest kind of plowing. Ample beam and bottom clearance prevents clogging. It is equipped with a spring-trip hitch with a lift-up handle which enables the operator to recouple
the plow easily without leaving the tractor seat.

Come in and ask us about the Little Genius Plow and other types of McCormick-Deering Plows and Equipment.
